

Profile Area ICT Young Researcher Award 2022

In 2017, the profile area “Information and Communication Technology” at RWTH Aachen University introduced an “ICT Young Researcher Award” to support young researchers in the area around ICT. The award is given to one or more persons affiliated to our university at Bachelor, Master or Ph.D. student level who contributed significantly to ICT-related research results and show the potential to further improve the international visibility of ICT research at RWTH Aachen University. The winners of the award in 2021 were Jan Pennekamp and Peter Toth. We hereby solicit applications for the ICT Young Researcher Award 2022. The award will be given in two tracks, (1) Ph. D. level and (2) at Bachelor- and Master-level.

Each award consists of up to 2000 Euros, which must be used for research-related purposes, e.g., conference travel expenses or acquisition of equipment or materials, and in accordance with the respective administrative regulations. Dependent on the quality of nominations, there might also be more than one award winner in each track. The selection will be made by the Steering Committee of the profile area ICT.

Applications can be submitted by students or junior researchers (up to Ph.D. candidate level, no postdocs) and need to include the following:

- An abstract of the individual ICT research contribution including a potential list of publications (max. two pages)
- A short CV (max. one page)
- A support letter by the academic supervisor or supervisors (max. one page)

Please send applications by email (attachments in PDF format) to
